NJPA Foundation is the ♥ of NJPA

Each year, NJPA and the NJPA Foundation are delighted to see hard working students attending the Fall Conference to improve their knowledge of the profession of psychology. To assist them with the costs of the conference, the NJPA Foundation has made it a tradition to host a "Take a Student to Lunch" program to cover their conference lunch. Whether or not you are able to attend the NJPA Fall Conference, please consider donating a lunch for a student who is attending the conference.

To make a donation, check off the "Take to Student to Lunch" box on the registration form. Donations can also be made at the conference.

BE SURE TO VISIT OUR PROFESSIONAL SPONSORS IN THE REGISTRATION AREA

FEATURED SPEAKER
General Session
9:30 am – 12:00 pm
2.5 CE

Domestic Violence: Is Love Part of the Relationship?
Understanding the dynamics of domestic violence relationships requires suspending logic and learning from the abuse victim/survivors themselves. The question always asked is “why doesn’t she leave?” This workshop will help find the counter-intuitive answers including the power and control the batterer uses to isolate and hold her so she develops Battered Woman Syndrome.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Answer 3 reasons why battered women do not leave the relationship.
2. Know the seven factors that are part of Battered Woman Syndrome.
3. Assess the cycle of violence in their cases of reported domestic violence.
4. Identify power and control methods used by batterers.
5. Apply three therapy techniques to assist battered women in healing.
6. Prepare for forensic involvement in domestic violence cases.

Afternoon Session

Survivor Therapy Empowerment Program (STEP)

Trauma survivors need more than psychotherapy in order to heal from the abuse they have experienced. Although STEP, a 12-unit manualized treatment program, was originally developed to help battered women heal from intimate partner violence, we have found it to lower anxiety and PTSD symptoms in other trauma survivors also. We will explore the 12 units and learn how to adapt them to your clients as each unit can be used independent of the others when appropriate.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Utilize the theoretical underpinnings for the STEP treatment program.
2. Adapt the units to fit clients in their own practices.
3. Develop techniques to assist clients in rebuilding resilience.

ABOUT THE FEATURED SPEAKER
Lenore Walker, EdD ABPP CL & Fam, is currently a Professor at Nova Southeastern University in the Center for Psychological Studies where she is Coordinator of the Forensic Psychology Concentration. She earned her EdD degree in psychology from Rutgers, The State University in New Jersey in 1972 with expertise in working with children and their families. She also holds a MS from City College of the City University of New York in 1969 and an AB degree from Hunter College of CUNY in 1962. In 2004, she earned a Post-Doctoral Master of Science degree in Psychopharmacology from NSU. She became licensed to practice psychology in New Jersey in 1974, in Colorado in 1975, and in 1994 in Florida. She was board certified by the American Board of Professional Psychology in Clinical Psychology in 1979 and in Couples and Family Psychology in 2003. In addition to her academic credentials, Dr. Walker has been in the independent practice of psychology for almost 40 years. Her work began with abused children and their families in the early 1970’s when this country was first instituting child abuse reporting laws and, after noting the trauma to both the children and their parents from abuse, began her research that was supported by funding from the National Institute of Mental Health grant on the psychological effects from domestic violence calling it Battered Woman Syndrome. It was the first research to look at the psychological theories of how trauma and abuse caused the psychological problems that we work with today in families. She’s been on national policy making committees, testified numerous times before Congress, and in state and federal courts around the US and other countries. She was an advisor to NATO, the ILANUD project of the United Nations, Pan American Health Organization, WHO, and others. She was elected to the Board of Directors and Council of Representatives of the American Psychological Association and served as chair of the APA Presidential Task Force on violence and the Family. She's authored or co-authored over 15 books and 50+ scientific articles and is often traveling to do training in different countries.

In her work at Nova Southeastern University Center for Psychological Studies, together with Dr. David Shapiro and Dr. Ross Seligson, she trains and supervises doctoral students in forensic psychology, who provide psychological evaluations at no charge to families involved with the dependency courts in Broward County and who run groups in the Juvenile Detention Center and the jails to help the people there heal from trauma.

This two-hour workshop will provide an overview of current conceptualizations of complex trauma in adults. Included in the overview are the following areas: the Adverse Childhood Events (ACE) Study, developmental origins, differential diagnosis and current status of evidence-based treatments and interventions.

This workshop is designed to help you:

• Define complex trauma as a unique clinical syndrome, differentiating it from other disorders (such as PTSD, Borderline Personality Disorder, etc), through examining the current research identifying the biopsychosocial, developmental sequelae associated with complex trauma disorders.
• Review the fundamental principles of a phase-oriented, relational approach utilized in all effective treatments for complex trauma.
• Examine elements of an integrated approach to the understanding and treatment of complex trauma.

Presenter:
Monica Indart, PsyD.
